Record Crowd Sees
Salem Beat Potters

An all-time record for basketball attendance in Salem passed by the boys Friday night as an estimated 2,000 people watched Coach Bob Miller's Quakers win 37-23 over East Liverpool here.

Faculty Manager Fred E. Cope was unable to give an accurate account of the attendance last night, but said that he "felt sure it was the largest crowd ever handled in the Salem gym."

The previous high was approximately 1,500 people accommodated in the gym in 1937, Cope said. Unofficial estimates last night placed the crowd at more than 2,000.

Extra police were employed for the game and the ticket sale was closed before the 7:30 reserve contest began. Hundreds were turned away.

Advocates of Army-Navy Consolidation See New Opportunity

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Strong bi-partisan opposition to budget slashing that might impair security developed today as Army-Navy merger advocates seized on the President's spending estimate as an argument for consolidating the armed services.

The merger move gathered momentum as Republican financial managers, talking of sharp reduction in Mr. Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1, looked hungrily at a projected outlay of $11,000,000,000 or the forces.

On both sides of Capitol Hill the GOP leadership seemed nearing agreement that $3,500,000,000 may be about as much as congress can hope to pare from the President's estimate.

See 4 Billion Cut
Chairman Taft (R-NY) of the House appropriations committee said the total can be reduced "at least three or four billions." This is the amount Chairman Taft (Ohio) of the GOP Senate steering committee has said he thinks can be "squeezed out."

Taft told reporters his contention that appropriations can be cut to slightly over $29,000,000,000 had been widely taken to mean he intended a slash of some $8,000,000,000 in the budget total.

He said he referred only to new appropriations and that the budget provides for spending several billions in carryover funds.

If the Republicans are going to make good their promise to take a big bite out of the President's figures, they conceded, they must do considerable nipping on Army and Navy funds which account for about 9 percent of the total.

"Substantial, honest-to-goodness cuts" in military spending were pressed by Rep. Engel (R-Mich.) if the Army and the Navy are merged.

Engel, who will head the appropriations sub-committee handling Army funds, told reporters that even without a merger large cuts could be made "without sacrificing essential national defense."

"But I want one dollar of national defense for every dollar spent," Engel said.

One of the first things his committee will do, he said, will be to review the personnel needs of the Army to determine whether 1,070,000 uniformed men will be required during the next year.

Rep. Plumley (R-Vt.), who will head the naval appropriations sub-committee, said there is room for reductions in the Navy's budget but declined to specify what items could be shaved.

The chairman-designate of the House armed services committee, Rep. Walter Andrews (R-NY) took a firm stand against "any cuts affecting security" but said he believes reductions are possible through "elimination of duplication of the same functions by the army and the navy."

Food Prices Show General
Decline In U. S. Cities

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—There appeared good food news today for the nation's housewives — retail prices generally are on the way down.

There'll be no more sharp boosts in food prices, virtually all food industry sources said. And a country-wide spot survey of representatives cities showed that more retail food prices are being marked down than up.

The survey of retail prices disclosed prices have been reduced for eggs, cheese, lard, fresh and canned meats, canned citrus fruits and dried peaches and dried apples. Food industry spokesmen predicted lower prices in canned goods upon receipt of the summer pack.

Gordon C. Corabie, president of the Institute of Food Distribution, said in an interview in New York that "the basic downward trend in retail food prices has been gathering momentum since mid-November."

Montgomery Ends
Visit In Russia

(By Associated Press)
MOSCOW, Jan. 11.—Field Marshal Lord Montgomery left for home by plane today after a triumphal visit, climaxed by two meetings with Prime Minister Stalin who he said looked fine and apparently was in excellent health.

It is well known that Montgomery's visit was not purely social and that he definitely talked military collaboration.

His most important task, of course, was his 70-minute interview yesterday with Stalin in the Kremlin. The two men were believed to have discussed Montgomery's recent visit, climaxed by two meetings with Prime Minister Stalin who he said looked fine and apparently was in excellent health.

Apparently the conversation had been most friendly, both in the interview and last night at a Kremlin state dinner, with the prime minister as Montgomery's host.

LABOR LAW IS
SENATE PLAN

Solons Favor Combining
Two or Three Bills Into
One Package

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Senate Republican leaders leaned today toward the idea of combining two or three of their labor bills into one big package.

Members of the Senate labor committee said privately the brief hearing planned for the No. 1 bill on the schedule, the Ball-Taft-Smith bill, now may be combined with the hearings on other proposals such as:

1. The far-reaching bill to abolish industry-wide bargaining introduced yesterday by Senator Ball (R-Minn.). Ball said of this proposal that it would prevent industry-wide strikes, and under it "certainly John L. Lewis would not be an absolute dictator."

2. Proposals to outlaw various forms of the closed shop.

3. Proposals to change the Wagner act in order to give employers a better bargaining position.

All-Inclusive

The idea of shoving a large number of labor law changes into one bill has been favored all along by house Republican leaders. Two or three huge omnibus bills have been introduced in the house.

But the 51 Senate Republicans, meeting a week ago, decided on the general strategy of proceeding first with the Ball-Taft-Smith bill and then holding a longer hearing on other proposals.

The No. 1 measure, sponsored by Ball, Senator Taft (R-Ohio), and Senator H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), is a slightly revised version of last year's Case bill. It would set up a federal mediation board, delay strikes 60 days, prevent jurisdictional strikes and require unions to make financial reports.

Ball's "industry-wide" bill would confine collective bargaining negotiations to a single company—or, if more than one company is involved, their plants must be in the same city or at least within an area no more than 100 miles wide.

He told a news conference yesterday that this would not actually break up unions into small units, but it would require their units to become autonomous in collective bargaining.

He said national labor leaders could not "dictate" to their locals and predicted that if the bill becomes law, powerful national unions will take on the loose character of industry's trade associations.

The bill would affect the coal, maritime and many other industries. But it would not apply to railroads and airlines, which are under the Railway Labor act.

Yesterday Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.) introduced a bill to repeal the Wagner act, abolish the National Labor Relations board, and establish a new board which could enter disputes threatening the public health or welfare and delay them for six months.

In the Senate, eight Democrats introduced a resolution to create a 20-man commission, including 12 members of congress, to investigate the whole field of labor relations and make its first report March 15.

President Truman recommended such a commission in his annual message last Monday.

Stork Outdistanced Grim
Reaper Here During '46

The birth rate far exceeded the death rate here in 1946.

According to the annual report of the Salem board of health, births last year totaled 986 while 258 deaths were recorded.

Of the 986 births, 407 were to Salem parents, 579 being to out-of-town mothers admitted to Salem hospitals. This represents an increase over the 752 births recorded in 1945.

Eight births occurred in homes, 978 in the two hospitals here. Of the births, 501 were boys and 485 girls.

Because the Salem City hospital and the Central Clinic serve such a large urban and rural area, the birth rate puts Salem near the top of the list in Ohio. The city's birth rate was second in Ohio in 1944, being exceeded that year only by Ravenna.

Salem ranked fifth last year, according to Dr. R. T. Holzbach, health commissioner.

Deaths showed a slight increase last year, moving up to 258 as compared to 243 in 1945.

Heart Disease Kills 80
Greatest cause of death listed was heart disease, 80 people dying of that ailment. Cancer caused 33 deaths and cerebral hemorrhages 20.

Nineteen people died of pneumonia in 1946, 12 from miscellaneous accidents, eight in auto accidents, six from tuberculosis, two from influenza, and one from whooping cough.

The deaths occurred in varied age groups, the report shows, with 61 people dying between 60 and 70 years, 60 between 70 and 80 years and 40 between the ages of 80 and 90.

Twenty-five children less than one year old died, four between one and 10, six between 10 and 20. Nine people between 20 and 30 years old died, five between 30 and 40 and 17 between 40 and 50.

Jack Weldon, manager of the Old Dominion Broadcasting Co. at Lynchburg, Va., en route home from New York, said witnesses to the wreck identified the girl killed as Elizabeth Breeden, 15, of Burke.

Weldon said Roy Campbell, 19, of Ford Town, Tenn., suffered a severe foot injury, and Mrs. Sam Crabtree, of Florence, Ala., also was hurt when a broken rail rammed through the side of a coach.

Several of the half dozen or more coaches and Pullmans on the train were derailed, Weldon said, although it appeared that most of the passengers were merely shaken up.

He reported that none of the derailed cars overturned.

The scene of the accident is in Fairfax county, only a few miles from Washington, D. C.

The railroad's Washington office reported that eight of the 13 cars were derailed. Officials there said they "assumed" some passengers were injured, but lacked details.

Ten Cases Are Ignored by Jurors: Four Indictments Are Secret

LISBON, Jan. 11.—Erwin Brown of Irontide was charged with first degree murder in two indictments returned by the grand jury in its report to the court Friday afternoon, concluding a five-day session in which 75 witnesses were examined in 30 cases.

In all 17 indictments were returned, ten cases ignored and three other cases combined.

Four of the indictments remain secret at this time, among the 19 defendants named.

Brown was indicted for the Dec. 14 slaying of his wife, Mrs. Beulah Brown, and Brady Petty, a roomer.

A third murder charge investigated by the jurors in which George Clutter was held in connection with the death of Steve Phillips in East Liverpool two years ago, was ignored because of insufficient evidence. Clutter's arrest followed a chance remark to Halloween pranksters last October that he knew about the Phillips killing.

Arraignment Day Jan. 20
Arraignment of those indicated will be held before Judge Joel H. Sharp Monday, Jan. 20, at 9 a. m. and criminal cases will be assigned for trial the week of Feb. 3, George Kirtley, assignment commissioner, stated.

Those indicted include:
Boone Aley, East Liverpool, charged with larceny of the purse of Paul Mikos containing $200 and important papers.

Elmer Ware, East Liverpool, charged with theft of a car owned by Laura Hissom.

John Lasky, alias John Laski, East Liverpool, theft of a truck owned by William Kind.

Charles Detrick, Salem, charged with burglary of the Frank Newhouse home.

Holdup Trio Named
Sam Caputo, Joseph Giordana and Matthew Senich, alias William Glenn, Cleveland, jointly charged with the armed robbery of the manager of the Murphy store in Salem in which $4,738 was obtained.

Charles Price, Wellsville, charged with burglary and larceny of a cry cleaning establishment.

John Lab, Wellsville, charged with assault and battery upon his wife.

Charles Beadnell alias Charles Gearin, James Kirk and Wayne Morgan, jointly indicted for burglary and larceny committed at the Standard garage in Wellsville.

Robert McCreary Hunter, Jr., Salem, charged with the theft of a car owned by Clarence R. Wooley.

Joseph J. Zlatar, alias Joseph J. Zellers, Lisbon, R. D. 4, charged with burglary and larceny in connection with the theft of wheat from the Frank Murray farm near Guilford.

Urges Jail For County
Catherine and Leonard Pat Whitson, Lisbon, R. D. 4, charged with receiving and concealing property stolen from the John E. Crowl farm west of Lisbon.

Miles Peruchetti, Lisbon, charged with assaulting a Lisbon girl with intent to rape.

The grand jurors who made the customary visit to the Mahoning county jail reported they were "conducted through the corridors on three floors and we are satisfied that the jail was clean and in good condition. We were also conducted through the kitchen and found it nice and clean."

The report was concluded with the same recommendation of every grand jury in the past ten years—that "Columbiana county should have its own jail which would be more convenient for all concerned."

Legion County Council

Four new members were initiated at the American Legion county council meeting at Wellsville Friday night.

Beware of Falling Ciphers

Like the household budgets now being prepared, the federal government's budget is mostly guesswork and wishful thinking.

The ratio of guesswork to actual fact is even higher than it is for individuals, because the government must pretend to be able to guess what is going to happen during the year starting next July 1.

A year ago, President Truman was gravely telling the country that receipts of 31½ billion dollars were in sight for the fiscal year starting last July 1, together with expenditures of 35 billion and a decrease in the national debt of four billion. This decrease was to come from an 8.6 billion surplus in the Treasury's cash balance; the other 4.6 billion would take care of the deficit in operating expenses.

Now, a year later, Mr. Truman—still guessing—says receipts will be 40 billion instead of 31½ billion and expenditures will be 42½ billion instead of 35 billion. Besides, there will be an increase of a couple of billion in the debt. The 8.6 billion-dollar surplus is gone with the wind, but Mr. Truman and his financial advisers can look ahead to the remote date of June 30, 1948, and see a surplus of approximately 200 million. In 1948, they say, the budget can be balanced at a point near 37½ billion.

In other words, the annual budget has become a farce as far as arithmetic is concerned. It is useful only as an indication of policy.

Thus, President Truman suggests that beginning next July 1 the government must spend 37½ billion, while spokesmen for the Republican party suggest that beginning next July 1 the government should spend as little as 30 billion. The issue is joined right there, not as an argument over arithmetic, but as an argument over policy. Mr. Truman wants to keep federal spending high, to insure continuation of a strong and all-prevailing central authority. Many Republicans—and many Democrats, too—would prefer to shrink the federal spending rate as the most direct means of weakening central authority, which they have learned to distrust. Most of the talk about budget figures, tax reduction and so on is a smoke screen to cover this clash of opinion on a fundamental political issue.

If Mr. Truman and his assistants had undertaken the preparation of a fresh budget determined to cut down spending at the cost of weakening the federal establishment, they could have emerged with a guess lower than 37½ billion for the next fiscal year. But it is obvious that Mr. Truman and his assistants are devoted to the school that came into fashion under the New Deal—the school that says the government should spend whatever it needs to spend to make it a more dominant economic element than private enterprise. This school says high taxes contribute to the welfare and security of the country, because they finance heavy spending by government. The opposition says high taxes are a burden on business and individuals, who would do better if permitted to keep hold of more of their own money. The opposition says the tendency of government to become paternalistic is an evil to be resisted at all cost. The New-Deal school says a paternalistic government is greatly to be desired; it watches over its constituents from the cradle to the grave and from portal to portal.

The budget battle has begun! Watch out for falling ciphers!

Both Feet On The Ground

The word "if" which all forecasters underscored in their 1947 predictions referred more often than not to the psychological element. It was a short way of saying that the United States still was struggling to get its feet on the ground after the harrowing experience of history's greatest war.

The United States is the only major country without striking distance of postwar recovery, a fact whose significance is concealed by the preoccupation of most Americans with their own affairs. This nation alone has the wealth, equipment, manpower, resources and the will to try to come out of the state of shock in which all other countries are still staggering.

But even in the United States there has been extreme difficulty, created largely by the reluctance of some Americans and the inability of others to abandon war psychoses and settle down to the duties and patterns of peacetime. Thus, it has been difficult to give up the illusions of sudden wealth created by the war boom, the excitement of producing war materials instead of the humdrum commodities of peacetime, and the stimulus of finding so many former restrictions lifted which would have been untouched under ordinary circumstances.

Beyond and above these things were countless impacts on individuals of wartime circumstances—the sacrifices, disappointments, triumphs, gains and losses that crowded upon one another during the war years. War is a tremendously unsettling experience even in a country able to keep war at a distance from its own shores.

The psychological element, however, is on the way to becoming more manageable, or at least in less need of management. World War II is receding into the middle distances of historic perspective. Even its postponed legal termination is now taking place. The United States is getting its feet on the ground.

A Good Trick If He Can Do It!

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

The Treatment of Asthma

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WHILE we have no very new or miraculous weapons against asthma, there are a good many tried and true measures which can be used with great benefit to the patient.

An attack of asthma is characterized by shortness of breath, a great deal of coughing and the bringing up of thick material from the lungs. Usually such attacks are mild and can readily be treated by the doctor with the patient at home.

In some instances, however, the disease occurs in a more serious form. In such cases, according to Dr. Haddon M. Carver and his co-workers of the Mayo Clinic, the patient is best treated in the hospital and, preferably, in a private room.

Nervous Factors Important

This is necessary for several reasons. First, nervous factors are often important in making asthma worse. Patients who are panicky because of the shortness of breath and are in an atmosphere of anxiety caused by family and friends, often respond favorably to new surroundings. Frequently this restores their confidence and hope.

Second, the quiet hospital surroundings and prompt administration of the proper remedies as soon as they are needed help the nervous sufferer from asthma to react favorably.

Third, hospital rooms can be cleared of rugs, drapes, and furniture and there are no animals with offending odors. The patient with asthma is often sensitive to these things.

Pillows and Mattress

Before the patient is brought to the hospital feather pillows and the mattress can be made dust-proof with special covers. If it is not possible to put the patient with severe asthma into a hospital, an attempt should be made to make his home surroundings like those of a hospital room.

In the treatment of the attack the breathing in of oxygen or an oxygen-helium mixture helps to relieve the shortness of breath.

While these things do not cure the asthmatic patient, they may serve to tide him over a severe attack.

Meeting Meteors On Trip To Moon Unlikely

AP Newsfeatures

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—If dangers of interplanetary travel are worrying you, take heart. You could ride the 5-15 commuters space boat to Mars all your life and the chance of meeting a meteorite would be very small.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple of the Harvard College Observatory figured it out and decided the actual mathematical chance of having a fatal encounter with a meteorite is this:

Assume you owned a spherical aluminum space vessel 12 feet in diameter and covered with a skin of steel 1/4 inch thick.

If you observed sensible interplanetary traffic rules, and didn't try to buzz Venus and avoid known meteorite storms, you could float around for just about 50 years without being involved in collision with a meteorite large enough to blow up the ship.

Dr. Whipple, calculating speeds, power and the number of meteorites that shower through earth's atmosphere, says it would take a meteorite of the eighth magnitude to penetrate the space ship with a 1/4-inch steel skin.

Such a meteorite would weigh only a milligram, he said in an article in Sky and Telescope, magazine published by the Harvard Observatory. But meteorites travel at such speeds that the size of a tiny pebble would penetrate 1/4 inch of steel, Dr. Whipple estimated.

Many other smaller meteorites undoubtedly would strike the ship without inflicting fatal damage, Dr. Whipple said. Here's what he says would happen:

"Considerations of the conservation of momentum and energy tell us that when a meteorite collides with a sheet of a thickness comparable with a meteorite's diameter, the result is an explosion in which both the meteorite and the corresponding material of the sheet are vaporized at a very high temperature."

So he proposed that space ships carry "meteorite bumpers" consisting of a millimeter-thick sheet of metal surrounding the ship at one inch distance.

This he said, would dissipate the penetrating power of a meteorite several times larger than one corresponding to one of the eighth magnitude.

But suppose a meteorite the size of a pea struck? It would be all over in a flash. "It would completely destroy the vessel," said Dr. Whipple.

New Overblouse Flaunts Its Freedom

Overblouses with hip accent are new stars of many spring suit ensembles. Left, hip-draped overblouse of black and white stripe crepe dominates suit combining red wool bolero and black skirt. Right, long-torso print overblouse teams with a suit featuring boxy brown wool jacket and black skirt.

BY EPSIE KINARD

Getting one of the biggest build-ups of their fashion career, hips owe much of the Spring fanfare to the overblouse under the suit.

This is the blouse which the new freedom has turned into an exhibitionist that wears its shirt-tail outside. Swathed over the top of the skirt and competing for place with the jacket, the overblouse flaunts its length, hugs the torso, drapes the hips, and shines as the new star of many suit ensembles.

Although the overblouse makes its bow in fancy monotonies and eclecetic white organdy, it cuts most of its duds in print. When it puts on a show of bold stripes and Dallesque motifs, designs are skillfully color-ensembled with the suit.

One example is a black and striped overblouse of crepe, side-slanted over hips and ash-tied for the build-up. This is the ensembling link between a calypso red wool bolero and a black skirt, a headliner suit for spring designed by Anna Miller.

Designer Adele Simpson shows a like talent for ensembling a long-torso overblouse of white crepe, abstract printed in black and brown. One color block of the print repeats the brown wool of a boxy jacket, the other the black of the woolen skirt of the suit ensemble.

Budget Out of the Red by '48, Truman Hopes

President Truman figures the U. S. budget may get its head above water for the first time since it dived under in 1931 if recommendations in his budget message for the 1947-48 fiscal year are followed by Congress. The message looks hopefully toward a small surplus of $202,000,000. Chart traces year-by-year deficits since nation went into red. Public debt would remain at $260,000,000,000.

Undefeated Quakers Continue Pace With Superior Show Against Highly Touted East Liverpool "Whiz Kids" Here

Second Guessing

By DON E. BEATTIE
News Sports Editor

THE OH, BROTHER! DEPARTMENT

The circuit is now completed. Salem has whipped the Potters in football and basketball in the same season. A win at Liverpool Jan. 31 is all that is necessary now to make this a perfect new year.

We sincerely hope—for Salem's benefit—that the East Liverpool fans who say "the Potter team this year is better than the 1945-46 team that went to the state finals" are stone right.

For the Quakers are a better ball club, man-for-man. They showed it Friday night to a record-breaking crowd, especially when they sported that 20-point margin midway in the third period.

If the facts are as Liverpool rosters put them, watch the Quakers in the tournament this year!

MUSINGS FROM THE LIVERPOOL GAME

A more enthusiastic crowd, from all about, couldn't be found. Scattered arguments grew and grew throughout the game between Salemites and Potters who were bunched uncomfortably close together in some spots.

It will take another Salem victory to convince East Liverpool that Salem is tough. There is still the "it was the floor" angle.

It suddenly seems centuries since East Liverpool entertained on a 24th floor, worse than ours ever will be. . . . Dave Williams, Class A tourney manager from Youngstown, was on hand to see just how tough Salem is. . . . He's thinking of the "seedings" already.

Coach Bob Miller's family was on hand Friday for the big night. "Pop" Miller reportedly was very pleased with the showing. . . . Miller is now a candidate for honorary mayor of Salem, replacing Ben Barrett who took over when Salem whipped Liverpool 38-6 in football. . . . Mayor Barrett was happier than anybody. . . . Frank Tarr said he missed the difference in score by a point. . . . Next week comes Ravenna and Warren, a hard pair, both at home.

NIMROD DEPT.

For you fellows who like your hunting "ferocious" and fast, get your name in now with the Department of Conservation, Nashville, Tenn., for a 1947 "Wild Boar" season. About 75 licenses are granted and usually about 30 or 40 boars are killed.

Back in 1912 some British sportsmen who owned land in Tennessee brought 23 genuine tuskers from the Ural mountains in Russia to this country to raise the big boys for sport. It seems they escaped and now have multiplied into a herd of 700.

These tuskers weigh up to 400 pounds and are classed as "the wildest and most wary animals and least tolerant of humans." The tusks of these boars are as sharp as knives and the story goes that it takes quick and accurate shooting to be safe.

Either that or take to a tree, for the animals have been known to keep hunters treed for hours and are sure and sudden death for dogs. A wounded boar, or a sow with young, are claimed to be especially ferocious.

It sounds like great sport—to stay away from. But if you should decide to try it, be sure and use a heavy calibre, high powered rifle, the Tennessee department advises.

DEPT. OF CONGRATS.

Salem Quakers are going to get a chance to play at South field house, Youngstown—If things work out as Bob Miller, Fred Cope and Faculty Manager Gander of Youngstown-Rayen are hoping.

Salem's scheduled game with Rayen a week from Tuesday may be part of double-header on the South field, if Gander and Cope can secure a second pair of teams for the same night.

The occasion would be an important one, for it would give the Quakers a chance to "feel" the tummy floor against a good opponent and it would afford a whole of a bunch of local fans, who have never been able to get in to see the Quakers in action, a comfortable evening of basketball.

The decision on the thing is expected to be reached very soon and if it goes through, it will be announced early next week. It's actually Rayen's home game, but Salem officials were more than willing to complete the arrangements to move it.

ODDS AND ENDS

Marion Paulson was installed as president of the Columbiana Boosters Thursday in the High school.

Andy Lindsay and Howard Feldman of Youngstown and Struthers, respectively, will work the Salem-Ravenna game here Thursday.

Mose Hall of Warren and Lindsay will be here Friday for the Warren game.

Charlie Emdin, operator of the Canfield Midget auto races in the summer, is spending the winter at Edmond, Okla.

Akron North, runners-up in Ohio last cage season, has won four in a row after a poor start with four losses. . . . The Vikings have beaten Toledo Libbey, Lakewood, Akron Vincent and Hower Vocational at the last four starts, averaging 63 points per game during it. . . . Ravenna, Salem's Tuesday foe, was idle this weekend.

56-POINT PER GAME CLUB IS STIFLED HERE AS COACH MILLER'S DEFENSIVE MEN THROTTLE POTTER BIG GUNS BEFORE 2,000

Well, the Quakers out-did the "Whiz Kids" from East Liverpool, 37-28. And it was a beautiful exhibition for the 2,000 basketball mad fans to watch Friday night as Coach Bob Miller turned out a man-to-man defense that completely stymied East Liverpool for the entire first half, Salem leading 22-6 as the second period ended.

Picking a Salem star would be a difficult proposition, but the show of Big Bob Payer, who tallied nine valuable points in the first quarter as practically the entire Potter team tried to stop him, was probably the "high point" of the night.

It was tasty triumph for Salem and it keeps Bob Miller's crew among the few undefeated teams in Ohio. The loss eliminates EastLiverpool from the high ranks of the untouchables.

It was Salem's sixth straight victory and East Liverpool's first loss in nine games. As the Quakers held the Potters to the lowest total an East Liverpool team has scored in more than two seasons, Tony Martinelli, Francis Lanney, Virgil Kelly and Jimmy Laughlin turned in superb performances.

The Quakers were not perfect by a long shot, but they remained the superior team all the way, never being led at any time.

Lanney, Martinelli and Jimmy Laughlin, (an ex-Liverpool lad) had the Potter zone cracked early in the first with well-planned and executed passing in the triangle of the back court.

All three kept the zone open with occasional set-shots, some of which clicked but all of which served to make the Potters weaker down under.

On defense Salem was undisciplined in that momentous first half. The Potters, vaunted for a 56-point per game average, couldn't get a shot off the floor in the early part of the game and went with only one basket in the first quarter and two in the second.

Salem tallied 13 points before the Potters even scored, and that was seven and a half minutes after the game started.

The Salem pace slackened in the second as the Quakers changed to a slow, ball-controlling game which further maddened the desperate Potters.

Virgil Kelly, battling every inch of the way, racked up two baskets to the Potter defense attempted to cover other spots, and Payer copped another of his famous quick pivot tosses, which flip over his shoulder with hardly a move on the lanky lad's part.

The crowd boomed an unprecedented ovation to the Quakers as they walked off the floor with a sensational 16-point lead over what had been billed as one of the best outfits in the state.

The third period told a tale of roof-shattering excitement. Salem came out looking just as superior for more than half the period. With Martinelli connecting twice, Lanney once, Laughlin once and Payer for a foul, the Quakers moved to a commanding 20-point 31-11 margin with 3 1/2 minutes left.

Despite the fact that Salem's offense purposely slowed down, Liverpool, still not vanquished, put on a long-delayed spurt and rolled up 15 points before Salem had tallied again.

Denal Miller, Walt Ashbaugh and Jerry Hyder paced the blistering Potter rally with a pair of buckets each in the period. Jim Cunningham netted four also, on a basket and two fouls.

It was the only Potter spurt and it lasted just five minutes before Martinelli broke the Salem ice with a foul mid-way in the fourth. The score was 31-22 as the final period began.

After the ice was cracked, Kelly added an under-basket shot and Payer a rebound before Tommy Miller sank a foul to make the Quakers total with just seconds over a minute left. Salem led then 37-26 and the game was back to its former level.

Allen Bailey's push shot from the circle made the final Potter points after it was too late.

Slow, deliberate play by the Quakers, even in the midst of the Liverpool rush of points, proved invaluable as Salem, acting on instructions from the coach, concentrated more on ball-control and defense than on attempting to work the ball under.

Payer, who had 11 at the half, netted only three in the final two frames, but that was because the Quakers refrained from the passes down under that had clicked in the first two frames. Most of Salem's shooting in the final frames was from far out.

Payer did a beautiful job on Ashbaugh, the Potters' big gun who has been averaging 15 points per game. Payer got 14, Ashbaugh only five, his low of the year.

Lanney, Martinelli and Laughlin handed their defensive assignments perfectly too, but Cunningham managed to net 10 points against Lanney, on a looping hook shot that was untouchable.

On shooting, neither team seemed up to par, probably because of the terrific pressure throughout the hard-fought contest.

Salem only hit 15 of 67 attempts, an average of but 22.4 per cent. The Potters, forced to shoot as they could, hit only 12 of 57 tries, scoring a 21 per cent average.

Despite the apparent roughness of the play, especially under the hoop, the fouling was not unusually high. Fifteen personals were called against Salem and 12 against the Potters.

Jerry Hyder and Kelly, who became involved in a "tussle" on the floor in the final minute of the game, were ejected by the officials. Bob Payer went out on fouls with 40 seconds remaining.

Clippers Whip Lisbon For Second Time This Season

Racking up their ninth victory in 11 starts and their second over the Lisbon Blue Devils, Johnny Cubas' Columbiana Clippers looked good in Friday night as they outscored the county seaters 48-35.

Both squads scored nine points in the first quarter and 10 in the second to finish the first half 19-11.

The Clippers came back strong to outscore Lisbon in the final two periods, 14-7 and 15-9, to ice the tilt.

Alan Webber, with 11, was high for Lisbon.

It was the second loss of the season for Lisbon at the hands of the Clippers. They were previously defeated 45-29 on Dec. 13.

The Blue Devils have now won four and dropped three decisions.

Must Have Looked at Long Shots

The 32-power binoculars seen above were used, say Los Angeles police, to get race results from Santa Anita racetrack, so operators could place "last-minute" bets and be sure of winning. Eddy Koplansky, alias Ed Smalley, of Chicago, and his son-in-law, Daniel Sheehan, were arrested while using the glasses in a covered truck, a mile from the racetrack. Above, Walter Lentz, of district attorney's office, examines the giant glasses.

CAA MAPS AIRPORT PLANS FOR NATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Civil Aeronautics administration officials said today they hope to lay down within a few weeks a pattern for airport development for the next three years.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1948, at least, the program will stress construction or improvement of airfields for the larger cities—projects capable of handling the largest commercial transports.

The program for the first year was announced yesterday. It calls for construction or improvement of 800 smaller airports at a cost to the federal government of $33,899,265 and to sponsors of $37,692,600, a total estimated expenditure of $71,591,865.

Lausche Chooses Ravenna Man Public Works Head

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—Gov. Frank J. Lausche today appointed J. L. McCormick of Ravenna as director of public works to succeed Frank L. Raschig, but there was some question whether the new appointee would assume the post immediately.
